The Char Dham, meaning "Four Abodes," refers to four sacred pilgrimage sites in the Indian Himalayas, considered highly significant in Hinduism. These are:

1. Yamunotri: Dedicated to Goddess Yamuna, this is the source of the Yamuna River. It's known for its hot springs and picturesque landscapes.

2. Gangotri: The origin of the Ganges River, this site is dedicated to Goddess Ganga. The temple here is a major pilgrimage spot, and the area is renowned for its natural beauty.

3. Kedarnath: Situated near the Kedarnath range, this temple is dedicated to Lord Shiva. It’s one of the twelve Jyotirlingas and is known for its stunning high-altitude location.

4. Badrinath: Located in the town of Badrinath, this site is dedicated to Lord Vishnu. It’s one of the 108 Divya Desams (sacred Vishnu temples) and is revered for its spiritual significance and scenic beauty.

These sites are spread across the Indian states of Uttarakhand and are often visited together as part of a pilgrimage tour. They are considered among the holiest places in Hinduism.
